SmartCEO Awards MacKenzie Contracting's Marty Copsey

MacKenzie Contracting Company, LLC is proud to announce Marty Copsey as a recipient of the 2011 SmartCXO of Baltimore award. Each year, SmartCEO awards several decision-makers who have made a significant impact within a dynamic company. This award salutes those who go above and beyond managing the day-to-day operations of the company creating an ideal workplace for their employees.

"MacKenzie is proud to recognize an individual who truly upholds the company vision and philosophy. Marty's ability, work ethic, and integrity have truly denoted him as a worthy recipient of this award," said Gary Gill, President and CEO of MacKenzie Ventures, LLC.

As President/COO of the firm, Copsey is responsible for the day-to-day operations and overall management of the company. Copsey has over 30 years of construction experience in all facets of the industry, including both "fast track" and "design/build" construction methods. His diverse background exposed him to the mechanical and electrical trades, giving him a better insight to potential problems and coordination issues that arise in the daily activities of any project, small or large. A firm believer that success is possible if everyone is "pulling in the same direction", Copsey believes in over communicating, making zero assumptions, and in creating and presenting a clear plan to achieve goals and then following it meticulously.

"Marty epitomizes leadership, serves as a mentor, and consistently recognizes the achievements and successes of every MacKenzie employee he oversees. Leading by example, he preaches doing the right thing no matter what and he maintains an "open-door" policy in order to promote communication without fear. Marty's comprehensive mentoring program helps support employee development and most importantly, he discovers ways to recognize and reward individuals for their outstanding success," said Gill.

This leadership has helped the company earn numerous accolades over the years from national industry associations such as Associated Builders & Contractors and NAIOP. These awards highlight excellence in projects ranging from Tenant Improvements to Renovations to New Construction in the retail, healthcare, and defense industries.
